π Why sponsor Mega Pi Reunion?

Target Audience

Pi Reunion and its communications reach a large group of MIT alumni, a highly coveted group of potential employees.

According to a study conducted in 2016 by LinkedIn, young professionals are working for about 2.85 different companies within their first five years out of college.¹ Because the majority of attendees will be between three to five years out of college, Pi Reunion attendees are often in the market for a change of career.

Frequent Views

All advertising opportunities will be collocated with highly trafficked sources of information for the event. Pi Reunion is considered the first major milestone of the MIT alumni experience, so alumni are very engaged with all relevant communications.

In February, an email from the Pi Reunion Committee with an interest survey received over 475 responses in the first 24 hours and over 1,000 responses in the first week.
